In the world of kitchen design and construction, many homeowners have a long list of requirements for their perfect kitchen. However, when it came time to choose a kitchen for this brand new home, the owner didn't really know what they wanted.

So they approached Geoff Cummins who, along with his wife Lisa, runs Cummins Kitchens & Bathrooms. The client provided the appliances and colour choices, but wanted to know what Geoff would like to do with the space. The result is a contemporary, spacious and ever-so-stylish kitchen that is ideal for entertaining.

The first thing that stands out about this kitchen is just how open it is. It's light, breezy and has ample room for a keen chef to whip up a three-course meal. There's no shortage of bench space to make food prep simple and the overhead cupboards run right to the ceiling to offer heaps of storage.

A generous walk-in scullery/pantry helps take the stress out of entertaining and there's even a Liebherr wine fridge set into one of the waterfall panels at the end of the island benchtop. On top of that, Blum soft-close drawers and hinges mean you don't have to worry about shutting things gently when you're in a rush.

BOLD AND HANDSOME CHESTNUT HUES ARE BEAUTIFULLY OFFSET BY GLOSS BENCHTOPS AND PALE SURROUNDING WALLS. MEANWHILE, NATURAL LIGHT PEEPS THROUGH STRATEGICALLY PLACED WINDOWS, CONTRIBUTING TO THE AIRY FEEL.

Not only is this kitchen practical, it also looks great, with the gorgeous chocolate tones on the cabinetry providing a pleasing contrast to the Organic White CaesarStone benchtops. Low-voltage downlights under the breakfast bar and overhead cabinets are unobtrusive and add a touch of class. The overall look and feel of the kitchen lets it blend in seamlessly with the nearby dining and family rooms.

Cummins Kitchens & Bathrooms is a family company that was established by Geoff's parents, Gary and Elsie, back in 1960. Geoff and wife Lisa took over at the beginning of 1994 and have continued the business's unerring commitment to quality, modern concepts and outstanding customer service. Nowhere is this commitment more evident than in this beautiful kitchen.
